My History | Resources & Advice for Beginners & Advanced Genealogists

Mail Order Catalogue for Family Historians
www.my-history.co.uk
 Autumn 2009

Dear Genealogist

What an exciting year 2009 has been with the launch of the 1911 census and another great series of 'Who Do You Think You Are?' from the BBC. We are now looking forward to the next Who Do You Think You Are? Live exhibition at Olympia at the end of February. For more details and a full list of family history fairs around the country please see page 28.

In this new and expanded catalogue we bring you even more ways to record what you have found out about your family. As well as three new charts we also have the latest releases of the Worlds most popular software including Family Historian, Roots Magic and Family Tree Maker.

Due to popular requests we have also increased the range of archive folders and boxes for storing your documents and artefacts. If you are working on a tight budget then you might like to take a look at the new Tyro range of folders on pages 14 & 15 for storing A4 and A3 sized documents.

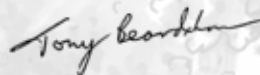

During 2008 TWR Computing of Suffolk became part of My History so you may notice we have added several more software programs to the range we sell. The TWR website still exists and will continue to do so. Although it doesn't get much of a mention in this catalogue, customers are welcome to carry on purchasing through the TWR website. In the meantime we hope you will enjoy looking through this catalogue and hopefully you will find something of interest to help with your family history.

Are you serious about preserving your past?

Are you having difficulty storing certificates in ordinary A4 folders? Do you have concerns about the long term storage of old photographs? Do you know the life expectancy of the paper you are printing on? These are just some of the concerns our customers have about preserving their research for their own descendants. Did you know that even storing data on CDs can be problematic as these can deteriorate over time and once corruption begins whole photographs and sections of data can be lost forever. Serious archivists still prefer to see printed documents as these have been proven to last hundreds of years if printed out on acid free paper and stored carefully.

We stock the 'Parkinson' brand of archive binders, albums and hold-alls, recognised for its quality for many years by archivists in libraries and museums.

Traditional Certificate Storage

The certificate folders on this page and on page 6 are for the old original traditional certificates that are much longer than an A4 sheet. Certificates fit in the pockets without the need for folds and may be placed back to back with a white acid-free certificate card in between thus allowing two documents per pocket.

If all your certificates are of the modern A4 landscape type then you will only need the A4 landscape binders on p7.

Will hold up to 40 pockets allowing archival storage of 80 certificates if inserted back to back in the pockets. The PVC binder lays flat when open and has a high quality 4 ring mechanism plus a transparent pocket on the spine.

These polypockets will also fit in the A3 storage on page 12, 13

More Insert pages for Certificate Binders

Certificate Dividers

Divide your certificate binders into family groups, births, marriages etc.

Cream coloured
- set of 5 tabbed dividers.

ACD5 - £3.45

A4 Landscape Polypockets

Ideal for modern certificates of A4 size. Made from inert (acid-free) polypropylene that will not harm the contents. These landscape format pages may be used in the Certificate Binders, Premier Certificate Box Binder, A3 Deluxe Binder and both the A4 and A3 Hold-Alls. Paper is inserted from the end nearest to the ring holes.

APAP1L - £4.95 Pack of 10

APAP1L-100 - £45.00 Pack of 100

TIP: What order should documents go into a folder?

There is no right or wrong way for this but many genealogists use the divider sets to divide up their documents by family name. Within a name you could file a marriage certificate followed by the birth certificates of any children and the death certificates of the parent followed by the marriages of children and their families etc. It is probably more interesting to file the oldest documents first followed by more recent additions towards the back of the binder.

Acid-free Certificate Card Inserts

A safe backing for certificates, photographs etc.

This white 280 micron, (postcard thickness) acid free card is cut to fit inside the certificate pockets.

Size: 39.8 x 23.4cm (15½ x 9ins) approx.

Once you have the name and location of a birth, death or marriage as well as the quarter year in which it happened then you will need to order from the relevant local registrar or from the General Register Office (GRO) at Southport.

The web address for the GRO is www.gro.gov.uk

Storing Old Photographs

There are two aspects to storing photographs. 1) How best to store the originals. 2) How best to pass copies of them on to various descendants. (Of course one lucky descendent will get the originals). From an archiving perspective it is important that your old photos are stored to prolong their life. Scanning them will allow you to present them in family tree charts, reports or dedicated photograph albums that may be duplicated as many times as you wish.

We do not recommend encapsulating photos in plastic using a laminating machine or the use of albums with stick down plastic coverings. This can be harmful to photographs even in the short term.

Photograph A4 Hold-All

The Photo Hold-All is a secure way to store your family history photos and other similar documents. Holds A4 portrait or landscape pockets. Carry your photos around safely without worrying about losing anything. Introduction

Our A3 Hold-All and Binder systems give you a great deal more flexibility when it comes to presenting your family history as they hold all our different pocket sizes thus enabling you to archive and display anything in size up to an A3 landscape layout. This can be particularly useful when you wish to mix the A4 photo pocket pages with A3 pockets and certificate pockets.

A3 Ring Binders

Now you can mix and match A3 landscape, A4 portrait or certificate polypockets to create a lasting folder of your family history mixing the pockets as you go through the file to suit whatever you wish to display. For example you may display charts in A3 landscape pockets, text pages in A4 portrait pockets and use certificate polypockets for those awkward shaped marriage and birth certificates without having to resort to folds and creases. You may also insert any of our A4 photo album pages. This padded binder looks good and feels good and will hold up to 40 pockets allowing archival storage of 80 documents if inserted back to back in the pockets. The PVC binder lays flat when open and has a high quality 4 ring mechanism plus a transparent pocket on the spine. Dimensions 19 x 12½ ins (48.5 x 32cm) approx.

1911 Census Information

The 1911 census for England and Wales was taken on the night of Sunday 2 April 1911. The census started to be available for viewing during January 2009 with a limited number of counties being listed. This was partly to avoid a huge rush of users overloading the system on day one of the launch but may also be because some counties are still to be finished and loaded into the system. 1911 is the first year that the actual householders return is available rather than the enumerators transcribed summaries that we have all been used to when viewing an older census. This means that we get the chance to see the return handwritten by our own ancestors which of course makes it very likely that the names and data should be very accurate (depending of course on the integrity of the person filling it in).

In order to view the census returns you will need to purchase FindMyPast units, either by buying vouchers from My History or on the 1911 website. The units may be used on either the 1911 website or at FindMyPast.

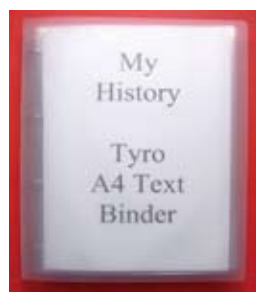

Please visit our website for more information.

Subscribers to FindMyPast which is associated with the 1911 site will not be able to use their subscriptions to view the returns on the new site. We do not know what date in the future when the 1911 census will be available for unlimited viewing by subscription or whether indeed it will eventually be available to subscribers of Ancestry.co.uk

Please see page 42 for full details on buying vouchers and units to view the 1911 Census.

Bookmaking Information

Some family tree software packages will allow you to set up a series of reports and charts in the form of book pages. The software will allow you to write a title page and automatically create a contents page and an index. It also numbers all the pages thus making a complete work for publication and distribution to other family members. Whilst we are convinced at My History that many younger members of the family will be happy to receive your work in digital format by way of a website on CD or a copy of your data file, we also believe that there is no better way of preserving a link to the past with the production of a printed document. This is because we believe it is still the most accessible way to present information to a wide audience and will never be reliant on any technology other than the quality of the paper used. The information presented does not have to be every detail from your tree and at the very least will provide an introduction to the family archive encouraging our inquisitive descendants to access the extra data locked away in a digital format.

Two of the most popular packages at the moment for producing books are Family Tree maker and RootsMagic. Family Historian is also an excellent program at producing reports but it does not yet have the content and indexing facility of the above.

Choosing Family Tree Software

If you're still using pen and paper to draw your family tree diagrams then you may be thinking about how you can easily produce up-to-date diagrams and reports. Using a good family tree program will produce excellent printed results and it will also help you keep track of all your family information and reduce the amount of paper work you need to keep.

If you are already using an online family tree website such as GenesReunited or Ancestry, you may be getting concerned about privacy, data security and you may want to store more information against your ancestors than they give you room for. The online sites only produce very basic charts and little or no text reports. In addition they may be costing you money to keep online each year. The good news is that online sites also allow GEDCOM transfer files (see below) for you to transfer your family tree on to your own PC where your data remains private, secure and free.

When choosing software consider the following points:

Data Transfer and Online Family Trees

Most software (even the old ones sold many years ago) will produce an output file in GEDCOM format which will allow transfer of family tree data. This is a relatively straightforward task and should not present many problems to users of family tree software.

What do you want to achieve?

Do you just want to produce very basic diagrams or do you want to have control over how the diagrams look and what information is printed on them. Consider also how much detail you want to store against your ancestors. You may want to store a lot more detail than usual if you come across an ancestor who did something good (or bad)!

Who is going to see the results?

Consider whether printed output is important or are your relatives likely to want to view your research in the form of a personal family website or on a CD.

Ease of data input and manuals.

It's important that you find inputting the data an easy task. Check if a printed manual comes with your program and is a further comprehensive manual supplied on the installation disc for printing out if you prefer. All the modern programs have on-screen help which in most cases is good.

Researching your tree.

If you want automatic links to online databases check that the program you are buying will do this and that it does connect to the website you want to use.

Check the types of chart a program will produce.

If producing charts is important to you then check out the chart capability of a program to suit your own preferences before purchasing. See the bottom of page 19 for basic examples of chart layouts. If you want lots of control on how the chart looks and you wish to add extra pictures and notes to a chart, then you will need to consider one of our more detailed programs such as Family Historian.

Reports.

Check out if the software will include your notes and present your family history research in a logical format. Programs like Family Tree Maker, Family Historian and Reunion (Mac) are all excellent at producing good quality reports in a book format.

Photographs and other multi-media.

All new software will store pictures and other types of media file. However check out the additional features of Family Historian where you may select individuals from group photos and link parts of a picture to individuals in your tree.

Sources and repositories.

Make sure the program you are considering has ample scope for linking sources to your facts so that you don't waste time at a future date trying to find the information again.

How secure is your data?

Make sure you understand how to back-up your data in case of computer failure, burglary or other types of disaster. Give your relatives copies of charts and reports on a regular basis.

Finally!

Who is going to inherit your research? Remember this is a family heirloom you are producing. Those charts and reports will be kept and passed on to future generations. Print everything out onto good quality acid-free-paper and make sure it is presented well in folders and binders. Your descendants are more likely to take greater care of this than just another computer file on a CD or memory stick.

A much more comprehensive version of this article appears in the Family and Local History Handbook which may be bought on page 18 of this catalogue. An extensive range of software features and a comparison chart are available at www.my-history.co.uk

Family Historian v4 (2009)

Family Historian is an easy to use, comprehensive professional family tree program that has some of the most modern features anyone could wish for. One of its unique facilities is the way parts of a group photograph may be linked to different individuals in the tree. Though all-embracing, this 100% British software also makes a good program for beginners as well as advanced genealogists due to its easy to understand user screens.

New Focus Screen

This new window has made Family Historian much easier to use allowing the user to navigate up and down their tree with ease.

Four different tabs on the focus screen allow you to view:-

- i) Spouses and Children of particular individual,
- ii) Parents and Siblings of an individual,
- iii) Ancestors and
- iv) Descendants

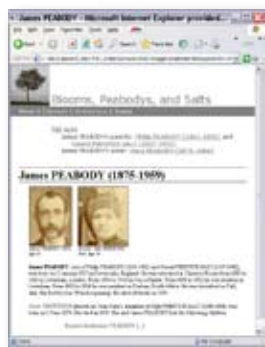

The right hand panel for data entry is customisable allowing the user to decide what fields appear on screen.

Charts, Diagrams and Smart Trees

Instantly create Ancestor, Descendant, Hourglass and Everyone diagrams, as well as Family Historian's unique All Relatives diagrams.

Diagrams are tightly integrated and used for browsing, exploring and editing – as well as for creating superb wall charts. All diagrams are fully adjustable and images of individuals are easily included. You may also add as many extra images and additional text boxes as required.

Smart Trees give you great control over your charts.

Creating websites is easy with the website wizard.

Family Historian's Smart Trees give you unprecedented control over chart layout. Hide, show, move, re-size and re-order boxes – trees will automatically adjust themselves to reflect your changes. To expand or close any branch on a diagram, one button click will make the diagram automatically adjust. Smart Trees give you absolute control over your charts.

Share your research

Family Historian lets you share your research with others using not just charts but also websites, family tree CDs, reports and more...

Family Historian comes with 28 fully-featured and highly-configurable reports, including narrative reports. A wide choice of options are provided for the display of pictures (and captions) and also sources. Creating superb and stylish websites to display your family tree is easy using Family Historian's powerful website wizard. Or, just as easily, you can create your own family tree CDs to give to family members.

Pictures and multimedia

With Family Historian, not only can you add as many pictures as you like for each person, you can also add a picture once and then link it to each person in the picture.

You can even link each person to their own face in the picture, and show just faces in diagrams without having to 'crop' your pictures. Family Historian is the only Windows family tree application that supports this – an essential feature if you wish to work with pictures.

You can also add sounds, video and other kind of multimedia.

Link each person to their own face in any picture

Other great features

100% GEDCOM - the universal standard format for shared genealogical data, but applications vary in how well they support it. Family Historian is unique in being 100% GEDCOM compatible, meaning that it can save all of its data to the GEDCOM format and it will load all records and fields from a GEDCOM file – including other applications' extensions to GEDCOM.

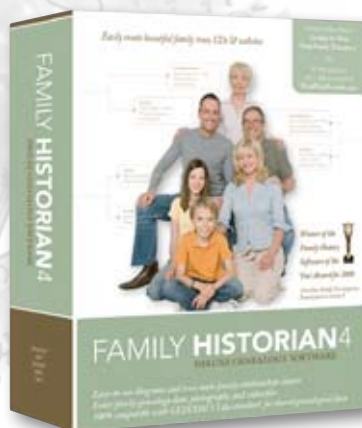

Queries - allow you to extract whatever data you want from your family tree file. For example, you could use a query to find out the ages at death of a person's ancestors in the 19th Century, or to find out what boys' names have been used by a given person's descendants. Family Historian comes with 34 standard queries, but you can easily create your own, to get whatever information you want from your own data.

Merge/compare - Only Family Historian lets you compare any two GEDCOM files side-by-side so that you can see where and how they differ, and how they will end up if you merge them – before you commit yourself to merging anything. You have complete control and you can see exactly which records will be updated and which will be unaffected.

Family Historian's support for Sources is Second to None – letting you keep detailed records of the sources of your information, and the location of these source documents (repositories). You can even store images of sources (e.g. scanned images of documents).

Documentation - Family Historian comes with a 48-page booklet to get you started. A full User Manual is included on the CD, which can be printed off.

Backing Up Your Data Files

Using Memory Sticks for Data Storage

This has got to be the best method of backing up your family history. It is so easy to use and the ample storage capacity means that you will be able to store all those valuable images of family, certificates and even those census returns you have been painstakingly downloading off the internet.

Transfer your data between PCs, Notebooks and MACs. Perfect for moving files between home, office and library. You can move, save, copy, delete and run files from the USB Drive in the same way you would from your PC's hard drive.

Remember floppy discs? Well a 4GB USB memory stick holds more data than 3000 floppies or almost as much as 6 CDs. However the real difference is the ease of use. Just plug it in and hey presto you have the convenience of a hard drive. Create directories and save files to it just like you do on your 'C' drive. Overwrite or delete in just the same way.

TIP: If you use a laptop as well as a desktop PC then we recommend keeping your main file and images on this USB drive so that it is available for use on either computer. Use your computers to hold back ups after each session working on your family history.

TIP: Just 1GB will hold 250 scans at 4mb. A typical family tree without any photographs embedded is usually less than 1mb.

External Hard Drives

On our website we have a selection of external hard drives that just plug into the USB socket on the side of your laptop or your desktop PC. As well as offering huge amounts of extra storage an external drive provides an excellent form of backup and security in the event of your C: drive failing. Due to the rapidly increasing capacities we recommend visiting our website www.my-history.co.uk for up-to-date specifications and prices.

We can provide all levels of service for printing your family tree chart. If you have your chart already designed in a family tree program then all you need to do is create a PDF file, make a note of its dimensions and send that to us for printing on paper or canvas. If you need help with your chart or you just want to send us a data file from your favourite program or online tree then for a small extra charge we will be happy to convert that into a chart for you. Please see the bottom of page 33.

We understand how you are going to use your chart. It is going to be unrolled and re-rolled many times during its life so we will print your chart on a good quality acid-free paper that is thicker than average and if that isn't enough you may elect to have your chart printed on an even heavier paper or canvas for a small extra charge. Your chart will be packaged in a cardboard tube with plastic end caps so that you have a means of carrying it around and storing it without it getting too battered over the years.

* It is usually possible for us to slightly enlarge or reduce a PDF image so you may choose the size paper nearest to your chart size.

Our website www.my-history.co.uk has lots of hints and tips to help you with your chart and even includes help sheets which you may download for your favourite family tree software or online tree service. There is also a conversion page that allows you to calculate the size of chart to order based on the number of A4 pages your program has calculated for your chart.

Paper Weights - are quoted as grams per square metre (gsm). Ordinary printer paper is usually 80 gsm.

Proofing Service – If you've never had a chart printed before on wide format paper then it can be quite daunting to spend lots of money on a high quality rolled chart. That's why we have introduced our chart proofing service that allows you to get a black and white folded proof copy for a fraction of the cost of a standard chart. Furthermore our proofing paper is recycled and acid-free. Please see prices below.

TIP - A chart printed on paper 24" high will allow you to include about 10 generations of ancestors where the most recent relatives include photographs as well.

Ink

We insist on original manufacturers ink for our printing service as these have proven to be fade resistant, better quality and have more colours when compared to cheaper alternative inks.

Why not have Your Chart Printed on Canvas

Our synthetic canvas is an excellent material for charts as it is extremely durable and the result is just as good as printing on paper. Before we used the canvas we thought that some of the detail such as text and images would be difficult to read or blurred but in actual fact it is excellent and possibly better than smooth paper as it does not reflect the light. We guarantee that you will not be disappointed with this material.

Trade Directories

On our website you will find a growing range of trade directories on CD covering many counties and towns of the UK. They are a sort of mix of yellow pages and residential telephone directories that we have today. Some businesses even took display space on some of the pages.

The directories can be incredibly useful in locating households in both rural areas and towns as they often include both a residential address and a business address for people in business including professionals from shoe makers to solicitors and landlords of pubs, beer houses and Inns. They often also have a huge amount of extra information such as; details of towns and villages, times of coaches and delivery services etc. Whilst this won't always help you find a family member it can assist you with understanding what a place was like when your ancestor lived there. This information can often be added to your family history to make it a more interesting read.

National Burial Index

This second edition released August 2004 includes the 5.4 million burials from the first edition plus a further 7.7m to bring the total to over 13m records. There are even more counties (see list below) and parishes registers covered for England and Wales from 1538 onwards. It is still not a complete index to all burials, but represents an enormous effort by Family History Societies and Groups to make available a large amount of information easily searchable in your own home. The National Burial Index, known as the NBI, is quality British data at an affordable price.

This is an index transcribed by family historians in the locality of the original records and is therefore considered to be of very high quality.

Use with PC operating systems only.
Not suitable for Mac

Cassini Past & Present Maps

Each Cassini Past & Present map is centred on a city or town and covers an area of 15km x 15km using four Ordnance Survey mapping series to cover four different periods: the mid 19th century, the late 19th century, the 1920s and the present-day. All four maps cover exactly the same area. Historical notes, details of the original maps used and web-links for local history societies and other sources of information are also provided.

Price £8.95 each

We strongly recommend visiting our website to check the places covered by the maps before ordering as many of them cover two or more places. The 64 maps of the 'Past and Present' series covers the following 114 towns or cities:

Baldock, Bedworth, Birmingham, Blackburn, Bolton, Bourne End, Bournemouth, Bradford, Brighton, Bristol, Bromsgrove, Caerphilly, Cambridge, Cannock, Canterbury, Cardiff, Chatham, Cheltenham, Chester, Christchurch, Coventry,

Derby, Doncaster, Dudley, Ealing, Eastleigh, Ellesmere Port, Ely, Exeter, Exmouth, Gillingham, Gloucester, Godalming, Great Malvern, Guildford, Haddenham, Halesowen, Havant, Haworth, Henley-on-Thames, Hereford, Herne Bay, Hinckley, Hitchin, Hove, Keighley, Kenilworth, Kidderminster, Leeds, Leicester, Letchworth, Lichfield, Littleport, Liverpool, Lutterworth, Maidenhead, Manchester (Central), Marlow, Milton Keynes, New Milton, Newbury, Newport Pagnell, Newton Abbot, Norwich, Nottingham, Nuneaton,

Cassini Old Series

The Cassini Old Series based on the Old Ordnance Survey's one inch to the mile (Old Series) maps are good for studying larger areas and although not as detailed as the Alan Godfrey range they will give a good idea of the size of communities between 1805 and 1874 which is the period in which these maps were published. They will also reveal a much clearer picture of the main routes for travellers at the time compared to the modern maps of today. This was the first accurate national survey, and records a time of momentous transition from an agrarian to an industrialised society.

A central feature of this series is that the originals have been combined, re-scaled and re-projected exactly to match Ordnance Survey's 1:50,000 scale modern-day Landrangers®. This range covers the whole of England and Wales.

The map (right) is a plan of all the maps available and they are also listed on page 37 along with their order codes. If you already know the modern OS reference for the area you are interested in then all you will need to do is order the same ref. from this range.

Price: £7.95 each (please see page 37 for map list and codes)

Printed Maps or Maps on CD

A printed map is always preferable to one on screen as it is so much easier to interpret when the whole thing is laid out in front of you on paper. However due to the scarcity and diversity of some older maps it makes economic sense to include them in large numbers on

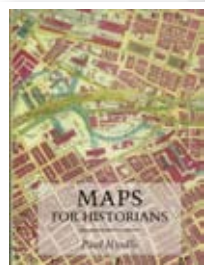

CDs. There is little or no overlap between the printed ranges and the ones included on the CDs. We stock 3 different ranges of printed maps all of which can be useful to the family historian. The Alan Godfrey Maps are particularly useful for genealogists as they nearly always show individual homes even when they form part of a terrace as in the example on Page 39.

Your Old Maps CDs

A range of 300 or 500 maps covering England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales at affordable prices. These maps of counties and towns are in PDF format for viewing with Adobe Reader v5 or higher. Visit www.my-history.co.uk for a complete list of maps on the discs.

Alan Godfrey Maps

The Alan Godfrey Maps are ideal for genealogists to use as they nearly always show individual homes even when they form part of a terrace as in the example (right). They cover only about a square mile, so even a small town may be covered by several maps. There are over 2000 maps in the range and there are still many more to be printed to cover the areas of the country that had the most dense population around 1900. These maps are considered to be representative of places during the 1800's as street layouts had to a great extent remained unchanged up to the time this range was first published.

It would need a separate catalogue to list all of the available maps from this range. Below we give you an idea of the number of maps already reprinted for each county. The maps that are available cover the areas of highest population in each county so please don't expect to find many small towns and villages yet. The maps are priced at just £2.25 each. Please go to our website for details of individual maps. Counties marked in red are to be added to the range we stock over the coming year.

Have you ever stopped to consider the properties of the ink in the pen you are using. Will it last 50-100 years before fading. We have all probably tried to read writing that has faded. You will be amazed how fast the ink in a ball-point pen fades over a period of just 30 years. The Millennium pen is designed for applications such as family history/ scrapbooking where ink is required to stand the test of time. With a 0.5mm tip that writes every time without blocking.

My History Chart Printing Service

Are you fed up with writing up or printing charts onto lots of A4 and then taping them all together or do you need some charts for a special occasion that not only look good but will become a family heirloom in years to come.

We have teamed up with a leading wide format printer who is able to print your charts on paper from a roll up to 42 inches wide and almost as long as you like up to about 50 yards. The charts are printed in colour with as much or as little information as you require about your relatives and displaying photographs of individuals.

We have three levels of service. You may supply us with a handwritten chart and we will arrange for it to be entered onto a computer and laid out in whatever style/format you choose. Alternatively you may supply a file from your favourite family tree program and we will format the chart and print it out. Finally if you know exactly how you want the chart printed, we will be happy to just print the finished chart file you send us.

For a full description of our chart printing service please see pages 32-33, or visit our website at www.my-history.co.uk

Introduction

There are some sites on the internet where you may search for your ancestors without being charged. For a full list of these please see the right-hand side bar of our home page at

www.my-history.co.uk

Other sites such as Find My Past, Ancestry and the 1911 census charge for viewing their records, not only because of the high cost of scanning them but also because they are investing in scanning and subscribing even more records. Imagine what it would be like if we could just call up a list of everyone who had been baptised in a parish since 1538. You may view via 'subscription' or 'pay-per-view' credits.

For a comparison of charges and records available please visit our website. Alternatively we sell pay-per-view vouchers for three of the most popular sites and these are approximately £5-6 each. See right.

Subscriptions

Find My Past Subscription Vouchers

Please see our website for more details of the vast amount of records available from Find My Past. Find My Past subscriptions may be paid for by cheque or bought online at My History.

Please note that these subscriptions do not allow use of the 1911 census website just yet.

Pay-per-View Vouchers

We sell vouchers for the Ancestry website and Find My Past/1911 Census. For full details of the vouchers and what they entitle you to, please see our website. You may send us a cheque or use your credit card or even telephone us up and order vouchers over the phone. We just ask that you order a minimum of 4 cards if ordering by telephone.

Advantages of using Online Vouchers:

- No requirement to give your credit card details over the internet

Family History and Plain Springback Book Binders (A4)

Available printed or plain covers – Black, Red, Blue or Green.

The perfect way to print and present your family history in book form. Our springback book binders allow you to bind up to 200 A4 pages (90gsm) by just folding the cover back on itself, inserting the pages and when the cover is closed the edges of the pages are gripped tightly. You may remove and re-insert the pages as many times as you like thus allowing your publication to grow over time. There are no holes to punch and the quality and feel of the finished work is more like a book than any ring binder. These binders help you make the perfect gift when presenting a printed family history to other members of your family.

Ancestors Ceramic Mug

We have teamed up with a leading ceramics printer in the UK to produce a unique gift. We think it will grab the attention of young children (and older ones) to help them learn about their family tree. For just £12.00 + £2.50 p&p we can set a picture into a small ancestor tree consisting of a child, their parents and grandparents set out with dates of birth, marriage and death (optional). All you have to do is supply us with the photograph and family details and we will do the rest.

The Tams Durham mugs are made here in the UK to the highest standards and are dishwasher safe and have U.V. resistant finish just like all your other mugs. Our people are trained in using an advanced family tree program and desktop publishing program to produce the best layout for your ancestor chart and photograph to fit the mug. We are convinced you will be pleased with the result and if you are not then we offer a full money back guarantee.
